

Swimming: Sun, Horton drama overshadows Peaty’s world record

Notes & Cues:	Article: Triple Olympic champion Sun Yang accused rival Mack Horton of disrespecting China on Sunday after the Australian refused to take the podium following their 400 metres freestyle clash at the world championships in Gwangju. The controversy overshadowed an incredible night in the pool, where Briton Adam Peaty became the first to swim the 100m breaststroke in under 57 seconds. The main drama came after the men’s 400m, where the bad blood that has been simmering between Sun and Horton since the 2016 Olympics spilled over at the medal ceremony. Sun won a record fourth straight 400m crown with Horton, who beat him to the title at the Games, in second place. The Australian, who labelled Sun a ”drug cheat” ahead of that Rio final, stood motionless behind the runners-up spot at the podium, while Sun stepped forward to collect a 10th gold medal at the worlds and Italian Gabriele Detti picked up the bronze. ”I was aware that the Australian athlete had dissatisfaction and personal feelings towards me, ” Sun told a news conference. ”But it was unfortunate because disrespecting me is okay, but disrespecting China was very unfortunate and I felt sorry about that.”
Summary:	